The King Who Comes Looking For Us

Dear Friends:

This week we will gather around Thanksgiving tables, count our blessings, and remember those we love. Next Sunday, Advent begins a new liturgical year. Today, the Solemnity of Christ the King, the Church asks us to consider where our lives are heading and who is leading us.

The readings give us two pictures of Jesus: the Shepherd who seeks his scattered sheep and the King who judges the nations. We might find the first comforting and the second unsettling. Yet they reveal the same Lord and the same love.

At Jesus the Good Shepherd, this should speak directly to our hearts. Our Shepherd cares enough to come looking for us when we wander. He also cares enough to tell us the truth about our choices and where they lead.

His mercy invites us to repent. His judgment reminds us that our response matters.

In today's Gospel, Jesus describes the final judgment with surprising simplicity. He speaks about feeding the hungry, welcoming the stranger, clothing the needy, and visiting the sick and imprisoned.

Then comes the astonishing revelation: "Whatever you did for one of the least brothers of mine, you did for me."

The King identifies himself with people we might overlook.

We can spend a lifetime looking for God in extraordinary experiences while passing him by in someone who needs an ordinary act of kindness. The lonely neighbor. The exhausted caregiver. The relative whose company requires patience. The person who cannot repay our generosity.

Our love for Jesus becomes visible in how we treat them.

That does not mean we earn heaven by accumulating good deeds. Salvation is God's gift. But receiving his grace changes us. Faith draws us into a relationship with Christ, and that relationship bears fruit in love.

As we prepare for Thanksgiving, let gratitude become something we do.

Could you invite someone who would otherwise eat alone? Help provide a meal for a struggling family? Visit someone who cannot leave home? Put aside an old grievance before gathering at the table?

These are opportunities to welcome Christ himself.

And as Advent approaches, make room for the Shepherd to guide you. Plan for Sunday Mass. Set aside time for prayer. Return to Confession. Ask him to show you whom you have overlooked.

One day we will meet the Lord face to face. The One who judges us will be the One who died to save us. We can approach him with confidence while taking his words seriously.

This week, thank him for his blessings by becoming a blessing to someone else.

Then begin Advent with a simple prayer: "Jesus, my Shepherd and my King, lead me. Help me recognize you, love you, and serve you."

Fr. Peter
