· · THE PASTOR'S CORNER · ·

My brothers and sisters, last weekend, beginning on Friday with the Solemnity of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, and then on Sunday, we began a new series of reflections called "The Heart Speaks" The Solemnity of the Sacred Heart is a celebration in the life of the Church of the revelation of God's immense love for all of us, even to the point of the death of His Son to redeem us from sin and offer us an invitation to a unique and beautiful friendship with Him. And in the Gospel last week we reflected upon how Christ is the best example for having His heart speak, as it spoke with compassion on the troubled and abandoned crowd- who represents all of us due to our own sinful and weak human nature, only to be redeemed by the heart of Christ. This week my friends we will be reflecting upon "The Heart Speaks" through the 'Secrets of the Heart'.

For many, if not all of us we have secrets- things hidden in our mind and heart that we really want to hold on to without certain people discovering them until its actually time. Secrets in some ways are good, especially if they are directed toward the good of another- meaning, for example a surprise party or gift to someone. However, secrets are also not so good, especially if they involve concealing something that needs to be revealed or truthfully said for towards a certain person with the effect of certain consequences attached even to the point of being dishonest or consequential. The heart has secrets, but the heart also speaks those secrets to us. Again, if they are good secrets, our heart will discern us to hold on to them until it is the right moment to reveal; if however, the secrets are not so good, then our heart will discern us to make the right choice of being honest and truthful, even though most of us fall away from that and conceal it until we intellectually think its the right time. Remember: we are more intellectually spoken for rather than allowing for us to discern in our heart for what our mind is to say and do. We need to learn to discern with our heart, and then allow for the mind to speak for and act on what the heart says.

In our First Reading and our Gospel we find that secrets are everywhere. The Prophet Jeremiah knows the "whispering" of the people who he is trying to rekindle a relationship with God, up until the point that they are 'whispering' about denouncing Jeremiah as the prophet and putting him to death. The Lord God though knows all and sees all. He knows their intention, and so does Jeremiah, that is why God is comforting him by being with Him. In our Gospel, Jesus also points to the fact that, "Nothing is concealed that will not be revealed, nor secret that will not be known. What I say to you in the darkness, speak in the light; what you hear whispered, proclaim on the housetops." This is not to say Jesus is a 'concealer'. On the contrary, no. Jesus is the only one to speak the truth. He does not want to hide anything. He speaks what His Father speaks to Him- "The Spirit of truth will testify to me, says the Lord; and you also will testify.", and He speaks at the proper time.

My friends, "The Heart Speaks" and it wants to reveal the secrets in our lives to others in order for us to establish a relationship with them. Let us discern what is concealed and hidden in our life, and proclaim it on the housetop. Let it be seen not in the dark, but rather in the light, so that we may not be hidden in the darkness of our own secrets, but experience the light of truth that radiates from the heart of Jesus so that, "the grace of God and the gracious gift of the one man Jesus Christ overflow for the many."

NEWS FROM THE ARCHDIOCESE OF HARTFORD

JUNE 13 - 19, 2026

Laudato Si' Teachings Take Root at East Catholic Shoreline Academy

- Story by Shelley Wolf

In late May, parents and students wandered the halls and gymnasium, perusing colorful student art and exhibits at East Catholic Shoreline Academy in Branford.

In a timely spring activity, they learned how to sprout seedlings for a vegetable garden. And anyone who enjoyed a snack during the evening event was instructed by a group of youngsters in how to recycle or compost their packaging and leftovers.

It was all part of the school's "STREAM Night and Art Show," which showcased, among other initiatives, an ongoing Laudato Si' program.

Since 2022, East Catholic Shoreline Academy, or ESCA, has been incorporating Pope Francis' Laudato Si' teachings into its curriculum in all grades. Students are learning that taking care of God's creation is a moral and spiritual imperative.

"Every year we add something new," says Cheryl Panzo, principal of East Shoreline Catholic Academy, which serves students in pre-kindergarten through eighth grade. "It's really important for us. We definitely want to keep it going. Saving the Earth is kind of a big deal."

Laudato Si' is often celebrated on April 22, Earth Day, or on May 24, the anniversary of the day that Pope Francis' landmark encyclical, Laudato Si': On Care for Our Common Home, was released in 2015. The document urges everyone to find integrated solutions to address poverty, restore dignity to the excluded, and protect nature, problems that are frequently intertwined.

In 2022, ESCA began its Laudato Si' program by planting a schoolwide community garden. "We try to get the whole school involved. The focus is on gardening and sustainability," Panzo explains.

Students planted tomatoes, eggplant, peppers, lettuce, parsley and chives. "Our big goal, should we get there, is to have enough to give to the Branford Community Dining Room," Panzo says, "and to do a farm-to-table fundraiser."

This year, for the first time, a portion of the garden has been taken over by first graders, who planted a "Three-Sisters Garden" of corn, beans and squash.

"The beans use the corn stalks for support, and the squash acts as a fertilizer and keeps the moisture in to help the corn and beans grow," Panzo explains. "This is something Native Americans have been doing in Connecticut long before us."

"There's so much they can learn from this," says Mary Dobson, the first grade teacher, such as how to track the seasons and the weather. "We're also being stewards of God's creation by planting in the soil and seeing how plants grow. And we talk about how when you share your gifts and work together, it's amazing how much you can do."

In 2024, with a grant from the Connecticut Catholic Foundation, the school added a Green Team of fourth and fifth graders to take on special Laudato Si' projects.

The Green Team runs an ambitious composting project, using a video and signage to teach other students how to correctly sort lunch items. "Students are learning what can be composted or not, what's recyclable or not, and what's trash," Panzo explains.

In the cafeteria, Green Team members collect unopened food packages to donate to Food Share. Then they guide their fellow students in setting aside food scraps for a composting company, depositing used containers for recycling, and tossing the rest as trash.

Best of all, Blue Earth Compost, a composting company, picks up the scraps and returns them as soil and fertilizer for the community garden.

The Green Team, supervised by Nicole Truhart, instructs students in how to sort their disposable items into the proper recycling, landfill and compost containers.
