Halloween, All Saints & All Souls

How are these three celebrations connected? All Saints Day, November 1st in our Church Calendar, is a Holy Day of Obligation honoring all the saints, including those souls in heaven not recognized officially by the Church as saints. All Saints Day commemorates the "great multitude, which no one could count" (cf. Rev. 7:9), those holy men and women from every age who are with God in heaven, whether canonized or not, who have no particular liturgical feast day during the year. This vast throng of unnamed saints might include our deceased parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, siblings, spouses, children and friends – people we actually knew in this life who lived holy lives. Because we cannot know for certain who has attained sainthood, we set aside this day each year to honor all those saints known only to God.

Halloween, "All Hallows Eve" (hallow = holy), the eve of All Saints Day, was a time to traditionally dress up in costume like our favorite or patron saints. It also connects with a pre-Christian Celtic tradition that on this night the boundary between this world and the world of dead became particularly "thin" enabling a connection to those who had died. Hence, the belief arose that on this night ghosts and spirits abounded, and the costumes of Saints gradually evolved (or maybe devolved) into costumes of ghosts, goblins, witches and other scary things that "go bump in the night."

November 2nd each year celebrates the Feast of All Souls when we pray for all who have died and are awaiting their final entrance into heaven. The Scriptural passage from 2 Maccabees 12:43-46 speaks of Judas Maccabeus praying for the soldiers mortally wounded in the battle to restore the Jewish rule and purify the Temple in Jerusalem: "In doing this he acted in a very excellent and noble way, inasmuch as he had the resurrection in mind; for if he were not expecting the fallen to rise again, it would have been superfluous and foolish to pray for the dead. But if he did this with a view to the splendid reward that awaits those who had gone to rest in godliness, it was a holy and pious thought. Thus, he made atonement for the dead that they might be absolved from their sin."

In our Christian tradition, if we should die while not in a perfect state of grace, we believe that we can still enter heaven through a process of purification. This is what we call "Purgatory". (Read paragraphs 1030-1032 of the Catechism of the Catholic Church for a more thorough explanation.) While it is difficult to say in much detail what exactly this experience might be like, it does make sense that for those who have died not definitively rejecting God yet not in a perfect state of grace, some purification may be needed to prepare them to stand in the presence of the One who is Perfect Goodness. Purgatory also satisfies any temporal punishment due us because of our sins. While this purification is solely the gift of God, we believe that our prayers of intercession on behalf of our deceased loved ones can assist them. Remembering our deceased loved ones by having Mass celebrated for them is a time-honored way of praying for the dead. On All Souls Day the Mass intentions offered are for all the faithful departed.

Throughout the month of November the Church has recommended that we pray for the dead during the entire month. This is especially incumbent upon us priests, but can also be done by all the faithful. To honor our deceased loved ones, we might pull out pictures of previous generations of family and share stories about them with our children. We can make the effort to visit the graves of loved ones nearby, tidy up headstones and cemetery plots and offer a prayer for them while we are there. Here at St. Mary's, you are welcome to bring in a picture of a deceased loved one and place it on the display in the sanctuary and inscribe their name in our Book of Remembrance as a visible reminder for our parish to pray for them.

November is also a good time to reflect on our own mortality, recalling that we do not live in this world forever. The Latin phrase memento mori (remember you will die) can remind us that life is short and even motivate us to make every moment count toward preparing for the next life through prayer and acts of charity. It can also encourage us to make amends with those we have hurt, or to reconcile with family or friends from whom we have become estranged. May this November be a time for us to strengthen our belief in resurrection life as affirmed in the words from the Mass of Christian Burial, "for your faithful Lord, life is changed, not ended, and when this earthly dwelling turns to dust, an eternal dwelling is made ready for them in heaven."

~Fr. Stephen

Prayer Pew Ministry

You Don't Have to Carry It Alone

Sometimes life feels heavier than we expected. A family concern, a health challenge, a difficult decision, or a quiet worry can weigh on our hearts. Prayer reminds us that God is with us, and praying with another person can help us feel supported and less alone. If something is weighing on your heart, let us pray with you and for you.

- For: Healing, guidance, strength, thanksgiving, or peace.
- When: After all Saturday/Sunday Masses & Mon/Tue/Wed daily Masses.
- Where: Look for team members wearing blue nametags in front of the piano.
