Ed and Nanci built their lifelong home near Lake Michigan and close to Ed's Parkdale farmstead. Together they succeeded in creating an inviting and memorable hometown destination which is still enjoyed and cherished by many of Nanci's grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Nanci was recognized and expressed her love for her family and friends through the preparation of delicious food. She was so very proud of her South Manitou Island heritage and Hahn family legacy, that she published her memories and accounts to ensure these were passed down to the next family generations. Nanci was a woman who loved her family and community and will be missed dearly by her family and those who knew her best.

The family is planning private Catholic services at a later date.
